A MARINE WHO HAS SEEN THE WORLD

As everyone knows whenever a number of Marines get together, particularly if they are old-timers, yarns about the Philippines, Guam, Haiti, France, Germany, China, or the Lord-Knows-Where, begin to fly. Once in a while some Marine comes through with a story of Vladivostok, Siam, or Timbuctoo and has "Gang-way" for a few minutes until another more widely travelled Leatherneck tells of an interview with the King of Abyssinia or the Shah of Persia.

Among so many holding world embracing travel records it is hard, indeed, to pick the most-travelled Marine, but few can boast of travel equal to that of First Sergeant Cecil C. Lough, now serving with the Marine Detachment at the Naval Prison, Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

First Sergeant Lough enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1912 and during his ten years of service has seen nearly every important city in every country in the world. His first station was at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. While at this post he visited Santiago, Havana, and nearly all the West Indian Islands.

Returning to the United States Lough was assigned to duty with a party making an extended tour of foreign countries and accumulating data regarding them. On this trip he saw the principal cities of Spain, Egypt, Arabia, India, Russia, Poland, Germany and England, including Madrid, Tunis, Cairo, Dakar, Senagal, Bombay, Moscow, Petrograd, Warsaw, Berlin and London.

Upon his second return to the States, Sergeant Lough was sent to Haiti and Santo Domingo. He finished his first enlistment as an officer in the Gendarmerie d'Haiti, and upon his discharge toured the West Indies independently before returning to the United States and "shipping over."

When he reenlisted Lough was assigned to duty at the Navy Yard, Bremerton, Washington. He was transferred to Hawaii, then to Guam, and finally to the Philippines. While in the Philippines Lough was appointed Sergeant Major and assigned to duty with the Interallied Intelligence Department in Russia. On the way to Russia he had the opportunity of seeing Sydney, Australia, Yokohama, Japan, Port Arthur, Harbin, Shanghai, Tsing-Tau, Canton, and Peking, China, and Vladivostok in Siberia.

Returning to this country after about a year of this duty First Sergeant Lough went to France with the Thirteenth Regiment.

This record of ten years of almost continuous travel represents an experience which seldom falls to the lot of any individual. It is quite possible that Sergeant Lough is entitled to be named the champion wanderer of the Corps.

MARINE BAND HEARD BY RADIO

The music of the Marine Band may now be heard by owners of Radiophones throughout the eastern states. A section of the band played at the Naval Air Station at Anacostia last week and the selections were broadcast by Radiophone.

It is claimed that this is the first time that the selections of so large an organization have been sent out by radio, the usual musical numbers being supplied by soloists, or a small number of musicians.

Because of the limited power of the apparatus at Anacostia the zone in which the Marine Band may be heard is not very large but plans are under way for increasing the power of the radio plant and it is expected that soon the music of the greatest military band may be heard in the homes of all radiophone enthusiasts.

Until further notice the band will play for broadcasting at 8:30 p. m., every Wednesday.

BITS OF MUD FROM QUANTICO

By RUSS

Congressional Visit

As reported in last week's issue the party of Congressmen headed by the Secretary of the Navy and the Major General Commandant paid us a visit. It seems, however, that whenever a party of distinguished guests plan to visit the camp the elements conspire against the success of the party. The review of troops which followed the arrival of the visiting party was held in a downpour of rain and the men marched in mud to their ankles.

The assignment of the visitors to the various messes of the camp which was one of the features of the program was carried out with great success as was the meeting in the Gym after supper. In the Gym speeches were made by General Butler and by Congressman Hicks of New York. The speech of Congressman Hicks was a striking effort and worthy of being retained in the memory of all who were fortunate enough to hear it. The theme of the speech was, "be good men, be good Americans, do your work well, and the American nation will continue to love and honor you as they do now."

Dances

At a meeting of the Enlisted Men's Dance Committee it was decided to combine the dance scheduled for June 9 with the dance to be given by the Fifth Regiment on June 8.

This dance will be an important one as it will be in honor of the visitors to the camp who will be attending the reunion of the Second Division, which will be held on the 6th, 7th, and 8th of June. It will also be the last dance before the big hike.

Movies During the Hike

Arrangements have been made to have moving pictures shown every night during the coming hike and maneuvers from Quantico to Gettysburg. Pictures have been booked for both June and July and some of the leading releases of the year will be shown. The list of pictures includes "Fascination," "Sisters," "Reported Missing," "Beyond the Rocks" and several other successful productions.

Chaplain Niver is making every effort to provide recreation and amusement for the eight thousand Marines who will make the long march.

Baseball

After losing a tough game to the team of Georgetown University, a team which is making a bid for the collegiate championship, by the score of seven to three, the baseball team has come to the fore with three victories to offset this one defeat.

The first victory was over the Roamer Athletic Club of Washington, in a closely played game, 7 to 4. The game was slow and the team did not display the speed and snap which is characteristic of Quantico teams.

The second game with the Cardinal A. C. of Alexandria as the opposing team was much more interesting. The pitching of Watson and Keil, who held their opponents to five scattered hits, made the victory an easy one.

The Rex Club of Washington, old time opponents of the Marines, who were defeated in Washington earlier in the season, came down for revenge and came close to getting it. However, the score at the end of the game was, Marines 8, Rex 7.

HOTELS COOPERATE WITH BUDGET BUREAU

Five hotels in New York and one in Philadelphia have signified their intention of cooperating with the Bureau of the Budget in the effort of that Bureau to secure reduced rates for Government employees traveling on public business. These hotels will grant a 25 per cent reduction to all Government employees who can establish the fact that they are travelling on Government business. The presentation of travel orders will be considered sufficient identification to entitle the holder to the reduction.

The following are the hotels which will grant reductions:

DIPLOMAS GIVEN THREE FORMER SERVICE MEN

Mr. Cecil R. Brown of 249 South Pine street, Galesburg, Ill., Mr. George N. Lilygren of 1344 Potomac avenue S. E., Washington, D. C., and Mr. Frank G. Ketcham of 384 Lincoln street, Kenosha, Wis., all former Marines, have been awarded diplomas by the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., for the successful completion of courses in the Marine Corps Institute.

Mr. Brown completed the Banking, Accounting and Banking Law Course, Mr. Lilygren completed the Draftsman's Course, and Mr. Ketcham completed the Draftsman's Course.

Leatherneck,
One month's pay,
Went on leave,
Stayed away.

Office Hours,
No more fun,
Wind-up of A costly bun.

Here's the moral,
It is short:
"Watch your step
If you're a sport!"

Remarked in Passing

George Bernard Shaw says that he is "much too clever in a world of fools." And the asylums are full of birds who say the same thing.

When a girl chooses some other fellow instead of ourselves, we all secretly wonder why she showed such rotten judgment.

"Bad dispositions are something like pug noses," says a student of human nature. "It isn't our fault if we are born with one or the other." But it is also true that bad dispositions and pug noses can be altered with the right kind of treatment. The process is slow and disagreeable, but persistence works wonders.

Barnyard Repartee

Said the barnyard calf to the little pig,
"Your home life don't appeal,
When you came in the other night
I heard your old man 'squeal'."

Said the little pig to the barnyard calf,
"You've nothing to brag about,
Whenever I stray around your way
You're getting a 'bawling out'."

Things That Never Happen

After holding a dog-robbing job for three enlistments, Sergeant Ima Wizard went back to the line and drilled a company for four solid hours without making a mistake and without becoming fatigued.

Failing to find a dust pan after he had swept out from under his bunk, Private Senty Mental grabbed his best girl's picture out of his ditty-box and used it to gather up the debris.

Angered by the loud snoring of the first sergeant long after Taps had gone, Private Kork Koff shook the "Top" roughly to wake him up. The sergeant apologized and said he would take every precaution not to let it occur again.

A clever idea has been developed by Corporal Gray Matter. He has installed a radio outfit right where the company falls out for Reveille, so he can holler "Here" when his name is called without the exertion of rising from his bunk.

When the Corporal of the Guard went to relieve Private Perpetual Dope from his post, he found him sitting down in the sentry box, smoking and reading a novel. The corporal was careful not to disturb Dope until he had finished reading the chapter.

A Marine has suggested a nifty summer costume for truck drivers in the Marine Corps. It consists of white flannel trousers, pongee silk shirts and polka-dot neckties to be worn with the jaunty little caps affected by college freshmen. The idea met with the instant approval of the truck drivers.

Two of the plumbing students of the M. C. I. recently got into a serious argument and came to blows. The argument was as to whether art, music and literature should or should not be studied from the viewpoint of a dilettante or a connoisseur.

Wives Are Expensive

"Your honey is going to cost you more," says a market report. We're afraid so. She has just boned us for a new spring outfit.—Granite State News.

He Did, You Know!

A drill sergeant at Parris Isle
Looked at me and said with a smile,
"If I had my way
I'd drill boots all day;
It's the one doggone billet worth while."

See Major Collum's History

History repeats itself. We find in the Corps today the same conditions that prevailed more than 100 years ago. Referring to the instruction given to Marine Corps recruits 'way back in 1799, a naval officer wrote: "A number of very active and clever sergeants are employed to teach them the exercises and manoeuvres and marches, etc." (Note to drill instructors: Presents for the writer of this page should be sent care of the editor.)

Classy Dressers in 1776

The following was the uniform for the officers of the Corps, by order of the "Marine Committee," dated September 5, 1776: "A green coat faced with white, round cuff, slashed sleeves and pockets, with buttons round the cuff, skirts turned back, buttons to suit the facings; white waistcoat and breeches edged with green, black gaiters and garters." The order also stated that green shirts were ordered for the men "if they can be procured."

That's Right

First Young Married Lady: "My husband is a one-striper in the Navy."

Second ditto: "Oh, you should just see my Arthur; he is a two-striper in the Marine Corps."

Special Announcement!

Are you reading On the Trail of Casabianca, the ripping, gripping, absorbing tale appearing weekly in THE LEATHERNECK? Devil Dog Dave, the fearless Marine, is on the trail of the biggest crook in Haiti. We hope he bags him. We don't know yet. But we hope so. Twice he has nearly bumped off Casabianca. Three times Dave has been perilously near death. Further exciting happenings are to come. Next week we introduce Fifi Flapperino, the peerless belle of Port au Prince, who admires Dave. Last week two Marine aviators tried to rescue our hero from the side of a steep precipice, when Dave gripped the wing of their plane. But Dave slipped. We don't know where Dave's going, but he's on the way. Now go on with the story—

On the Trail of Casabianca

The cool waters of the Caribbean brought Dave back to consciousness. He looked about him. Five hundred yards away was the precipice, rising sheer from the water's edge. The Marine airplane from which he had fallen was nowhere in sight. No doubt Casabianca either had been killed by the fall or had drowned.

What was Dave to do? To swim toward the cliff was plain folly. Its sleek surface offered no foothold. Far away a native craft was clumsily tossing in the heavy seas, apparently attempting to make a landing farther down the coast. Dave determined to climb aboard if he could.

With vigorous strokes he started to breast the waves. Then he saw something that made his blood run cold. There was a flash of a fin . . . a swiftly-moving streak of drab and white against the indigo blue of the sea, and Dave knew he was face to face with a man-eating shark.

For the first time Dave wished he was back on recruiting duty in Chicago.

Dave saw the shark dive and turn to gulp its prey . . . there was the fraction of a second's pause . . . the glint of a white belly . . . the swift stroke of a ready bayonet, and Dave swam away from the crimson torrent that gushed from the death-stricken monster.

The Haitian craft had drawn nearer to witness the struggle. Swarthy natives lined the sides and craned their necks to see the outcome of the unequal combat.

Dave's strength was ebbing fast. The added weight of the Springfield slung across his shoulders was slowly dragging him down. The bow of the native craft headed his way. He struggled feebly to swim the few strokes that would bring him alongside.

Mustering his last ounce of strength he reached the side of the vessel . . . strong arms gripped him and drew him aboard. Horrors! The craft was stowed from stem to stern with contraband rifles for the revolutionists. He heard a mocking laugh. It came from the bandit, Casabianca, who stood with folded arms on the deck.

For a moment Dave thought he was lost.

AN APOLOGY

Every once in a while with the best intentions in the world newspapers make grievous blunders and THE LEATHERNECK is no exception. In our issue of May 13 in our account of a baseball game which was won by the team from the Marine Corps Institute, we announced the Navy Yard Marines as the losing team. This was an error. The Navy Yard Marines were not the opponents of the Institute team in this game nor have they been defeated this season. The team which opposed the Institute was made up of members of at least three teams who play at the Yard.

SECOND DIVISION TO HOLD

DINNER AND REUNION

The Second Division Association, composed of officers and men who served in organizations which were a part of the Second Division overseas, will hold a get together dinner at the Raleigh Hotel in Washington, D. C., on June 1, and will be the guests of the Marines at Quantico for the annual reunion from June 6 to 8, 1922.

Captain R. L. Montague is in charge of arrangements for the dinner and is anxious to hear from all members of the association in regard to their attendance at the dinner. He can be reached at Marine Corps Headquarters.

The Major General Commandant, who formerly commanded the Second Division, is quoted in The Tomahawk, a mimeograph publication of the Association, as urging all former members of the division to attend the reunion. The Commanding General at Quantico, General Smedley D. Butler, is in charge of the preparations for the entertainment of the guests who will be quartered, rationed, and entertained at the post without charge.

WE THANK YOU

THE LEATHERNECK desires to express its appreciation to the writers of the letters from which the following extracts are taken:

"* * * To inform you of my change of address, for I wouldn't be without the Leatherneck any longer."—M. O. Earles.

"HORSE MARINES"

Of course, every Marine knows that there have been and still are, mounted detachments in the Marine Corps and that no one ever had occasion to question the horsemanship of the members of the mounted detachment which used to operate in Santo Domingo in the early days of the American occupation, or of the detachment formerly stationed at Camaguey, Cuba, or the mounted details of our artillery regiments, and furthermore it is becoming a matter of general knowledge that Marines are at home anywhere, whether it be the deck of a ship or the back of a horse. However, the expression "horse marines" still persists in the language with the humorous meaning in which it was employed in the famous Gilbert and Sullivan phrase, "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines."

It is known that the expression was in use prior to the time of Gilbert and Sullivan, and several ingenious explanations have been offered of its true origin. William S. Walsh, in his book, "A Handy Book of Curious Information," gives an interesting and possibly the correct theory of the origin. Mr. Walsh derives "horse marines" from certain commands given when getting a ship under way. In the days of sailing vessels it was customary to employ Marines at the hawser to cast loose, or to heave in the anchor, as the case might be, while the seamen were sent aloft to let go the sails. The word hawser is invariably "hawse" in nautical language and it was the usual thing to hear the word passed "To the hawse, Marines, all hands aloft."

Whether or not this be the correct derivation it is certainly an easily imaginable step from "hawse Marines" to "horse Marines."

MOVE MARINE CORPS PLANT BY TRUCK

The stock and equipment of the Marine Corps Recruiting Bureau is being moved entirely by truck to its new station at Philadelphia. Several truck-loads have already been delivered at the new quarters, and it is expected that the equipment to be moved will make at least fifty truck loads.

The materials to be transferred include: printing presses, folding machines, cutters, paper stock, furniture, and the household effects of some of the men. It is approximately 100 miles from the present site of the Bureau in Brooklyn, N. Y., to the Depot of Supplies at Philadelphia. Marine Corps trucks will transfer the material.

JAV' IN THE MORNIN' WATCH

By "SINBAD"

Mr. Kiplin' he sang of the water, Mister Omar sang of the wine

Which all goes to prove that neither of them was a man of the billowy brine,

For never a sailor but 'ud pass 'em—Artesian, Baccardi, or Scotch,

For a drink of the boilin', bubblin' brew that they serve in the mornin' watch.

It's only a cup of Java, right out of a steamin' pot, Yet the warmth of it steals from your head to your heels

Till it reaches the ultimate spot.

It's as good as pay or promotion the way it livens the lot,

Yet it's only a cup o' Java right out of the steamin' pot.
When they've routed you out in the mornin' to scrub
and dry down the deck,

The water is chill to your bare blue toes and the wind
is cold on your neck;

You're grumpy and grouchy and sullen, and you yank
your belt up a notch,

Till the cook comes up with the welcome shout, "Here's Jav' for the mornin' watch!"

It's the same with the Gyreen sentry walkin' post in his nifty blues

Who cusses the cold and the bloomin' salt water that's wipin' the shine from his shoes—

An' who swears if he ever can shake this dang ship it's the last sea duty he'll have,

Till the Corp' of the Guard comes around with a can and hands him his ration of Jav.'

It's only a cup o' Java, right out of the steamin' pot, Yet the warmth goes from your head to your toes, till it reaches the ultimate spot;

Its smell goes up to the heavens, an' it's boilin', bub-blin' hot—

"Here's y'r Jav, you bullies! Come get it! Right out of a steamin' pot!"

It's funny the ginger it gives you, when the day is a cold grey ghost,

And the mist hangs thick on the water and chockin'
over the coast;

When the daylight's out o' order an' the sun just a big red blotch—

It's funny the cheer you get from the Jav' in the chill
o' the mornin' watch!

It's only a cup o' Java, right out of a steamin' pot,
Yet it's got it all over Baccardi or Scotch and the rest of that 'stillery rot.

You'll find it wherever there's sailors, on windjammer,
war ship or yacht,

For there's nothing so good as a cup o' Jav', right out of a steamin' pot!

—Mississippi Bulletin.

DO YOU KNOW

That a blackheaded albatross followed a steamship across the North Pacific for 3,000 miles without once furling its wings?

That twenty French soldiers were killed and many wounded recently when, while searching for hidden areas, a spade struck the detonating mechanism of a hidden mine in Silesia?

That Indians of Arizona are becoming proficient in golf? With the natural swing begotten of loose joints, the strong muscles of the Indian drive far and straight, and approach with great accuracy.

That swimming from Colonia, Uruguay, to Buenos Aires, recently, an Argentine student made a new record? The distance was 27 miles. The swimmer was in the water 24 hours 30½ minutes, beating the previous record by 30 minutes. This is believed to be a world's record for endurance swimming.

What Will You Be Doing One Year From Today?

Three hundred and sixty-five days from now—what?

Will you still be struggling along in the same old job at the same old salary—worried about the future—never quite able to make both ends meet—standing still while other men go ahead?

One year from today will you still be putting off your start toward success—thrilled with ambition one moment and then cold the next—delaying, waiting, fiddling away the precious hours that will never come again?

Don't do it, man—don't do it.

There is no greater tragedy in the world than that of a man who stays in the rut all his life, when with just a little effort he could bring large success within his grasp.

Make up your mind today that you're going to train yourself to do some one thing well. Choose the work you like best in the list below, mark an X beside it, mail the coupon to Scranton, and we will send you, without cost or obligation, the full story of what the I.C.S. can do for you.

Right now you can decide where you will be in 1923.

Common sense will tell you that it is far better to send in this Success Coupon today than to wait another precious year and then wish you had!

M. C. I. TEAM WINS ONE AND LOSES ONE

The Marine Corps Institute Baseball Team continued the good work begun in its first game by nosing out the Yosemite Athletic Club in a hotly contested game last Saturday and putting up a game fight against the Seaman Gunners on Sunday, losing out by one run after having come from behind and tied the score in the eighth inning.

Both games were highly exciting exhibitions of the national pastime. In the first game the Yosemite team started off with lots of good intentions, gathering one tally in the first inning and two in the second. After that their activities were confined to walking up to the plate, swinging healthily and sitting right down again. "Lefty" Miles, who spends most of his time checking over enrollments in the Registrar's office of the Institute, had the number of every member of the Yosemite team, no less than ten going out by the strikeout route. They went to bat with loud remarks to the effect that, "He hasn't got a thing," but they returned to the bench with various kinds of bewildered looks on their faces.

The Marines started the fireworks properly in the sixth. Up to this time they had been unable to score except for one run in the first inning, but in the big sixth three runs were put across and they were sufficient to win.

In the Seaman-Gunners game Bryley started pitching but couldn't get going and six runs were scored against him. At least half of these were due to infield errors, the M. C. I. infield containing a couple of substitutes. Miles went to the mound again in the second inning and again pitched masterly ball, striking out ten men. The one run scored off his slants was due to an error. The Marines kept plugging away and in the Seventh staged a real rally tying the score. However, the Gunners got one in the eighth and the game was lost. Barrett, catcher and captain of the M. C. I. team, led with the bat, getting a home run and a double out of three trips to the pan.

NINE MEN GRADUATED BY*MARINE CORPS INSTITUTE

Nine enlisted men of the Marine Corps have been graduated by the Marine Corps Institute during the past week after having completed courses and passing the final examinations.
